For some time now, small-eared elephants and big-eared elephants have looked at each other in a strange and disturbing way. During the dry season, it is not easy to find food in the valley of Okavango. All the animals fight for something to eat: giraffes fight with zebras, rhinos fight with hippos... But elephants fighting is the worst...

Javier Sobrino

He is a national benchmark in child and youth Spanish literature and in the area of education. Every time he sees for the first time the images that illustrators paint with his words, and makes his dream of publishing a new book come true, he feels really lucky.

A fable about xenophobia and how pointless borders are in our world

Nathalie Novi

This French author has illustrated more than fifty children's books (for publishing houses like Didier Jeunesse or Rue du Monde) with increasing success.
